NYC Fire Wire

What's amazing is that while the United States took the hit, the waves were felt all over the world. This wasn't just an attack on America, it's an attack on the free world. I shock some people when they visit my firehouse in Midtown. They expect to just ask me questions, but I end up asking them a lot of questions because I'm always interested to see how the world responded that day and how this affected them. We all bleed the same color. Thank you, brothers!
